Equilibrium partitioning of organic compounds

- ▶ Some fundamentals ...
- Summary and further information
- Self test
- ▼ Problems
- Question 1
- Answer
- Question 2
- Answer
- Question 3
- Answer
- Question 4
- Answer
- Question 5
- Answer
- Question 6
- Answer
- Question 7
- Answer
- Question 8
- Answer
- Question 9
- Answer
- Question 10
- Answer
- Question 11
- Answer
- Question 12
- Answer
- Question 13
- Answer
- Question 14
- Answer
- ↓ Question 15
- Question 16
- ↓ Question 17

Question 9

If we double the mass of compound i in a system containing n phases, what happens to the equilibrium concentrations in the n phases?

Answer: The equilibrium concentrations in all phases n must double.

23.09.10 10:30 1 von 2

- ↓ Question 18
- Answer
- ▶ Advanced problems
- FAQ

2 von 2